SEE YOU AT SEA

Cruise enthusiasts are still prioritising their holidays at sea despite the current increases in cost of living, research has revealed.

A SURVEY of 1,015 people by cruise specialist cruise.co.uk found that almost 70% have booked or will book a voyage this year.

Of this number, around three quarters will travel on their first-choice sailing, with the final quarter still cruising but opting for a lower-priced option than they would usually book.

Of the remaining survey respondents, 20% stated they will go on a non-cruise holiday this year, either in the UK or overseas. The final 10% have postponed their holiday plans until 2023 or beyond.

Nearly 20% of the overall respondents have at least one sailing lined up in both 2022 and 2023.

There is an even 50/50 split between cruisers either sailing from the UK or flying overseas to meet their ship, with little sign that the ongoing issues at airports have affected plans.

For those yet to book this year, the Mediterranean is the favourite destination, with the Caribbean second and Norwegian Fjords/North Scandinavia third. The growing popularity of river cruises continues, as sailing a European waterway is in fourth place.

Tony Andrews, deputy managing director of cruise.co.uk, said: "For those who are still able to get some time away, a cruise remains an incredibly attractive choice because there is so much variety out there, with options to suit a wide range of budgets. The fact cruise lines include meals and a host of other inclusive benefits in their booking price means a holiday at sea still represents great value-for-money.

"It's easy to see why the Med is such an attractive option. It offers guaranteed sun, a wealth of eye-catching destinations and is straightforward to budget for when travelling via a cruise ship."

AGENT INSIGHT

SANDRA MURRAY NORMANTON, YORKSHIRE

WELL, IT seems quiet now that the Yorkshire Travel Ball has been and gone. We raised £7,000, of which we gave £1,000 to Greek Welfare Cats and, over the past couple of years, we have had more than 300 cats spayed. We gave £1,000 to Starlight Barking, which does an amazing job rescuing dogs abroad from terrible places and getting them relocated to the UK. £1,000 was given to Trunks Up, £1,000 to Brooke, £1,000 for Animals Asia, rescuing bears from the bile farms, which Vietnam has now banned, £750 for the Soi Dog Foundation, £750 for Safe Haven For Donkeys which does amazing work, and, last but not least, £250 for Hull Greyhound Rescue and £250 for Hull Animal Welfare. I just want to say a huge thank you to everyone that supported the ball. I want to personally thank Classic Collection for their sponsorship of the band and the pre-dinner drinks, and to everyone that contributed to the raffle envelopes.

I am thinking about hosting a Santa-themed party on a Thursday in December! What do you think? Let me know at s.murray922@btinternet.com.

Well done to Nick Hughes on his new job at Princess as UK & Europe sales chief – he has been in the industry for a long time and has a lot to offer. Good luck to Derek Jones who is leaving Kuoni. There seems to be a few new positions being taken up, which is good for the industry.

I think now we just need the airports to fix up, considering many of them still seem to be having trouble with extremely long queues. I think a lot of customers will have learnt the lesson that it doesn't pay to be doing things themselves without a travel agent, because, as we have seen, they can't always get the help they need. That's why an agent is worth their weight in gold, and we don't shout about it enough.

IN THE HOTSEAT WITH...

Devon Liburd
Nevis Tourism Authority

The newly-appointed CEO of Nevis Tourism Authority, Devon Liburd, talks about upcoming plans and the tourism authority's approach to working with agents.

TRAVEL TRADE ENGAGEMENT

We are continuing to work closely with Clear Marketing as our UK representative, promoting the wonderful island to the UK trade. As our trade contact on the ground in the UK, Clear Marketing's on-the-road sales force allows us to keep in touch with the travel trade and conduct travel agent training, events and webinars.

Nevis continues to be the headline sponsor for the Destination Caribbean events, which run throughout the year across the UK, promoting various locations in the Caribbean. Through Clear Marketing, the Nevis Tourism Authority also supports B2B tour operators on their efforts to promote Nevis to plenty of other agents in the UK.

PROMOTING NEVIS TO THE UK

The Nevis Tourism Authority works closely with its two agency partners in the UK Clear Marketing and Rooster PR, on trade activity and media relations. Nevis' key marketing pillars are wellness, luxury, romance, adventure, events and exceptional culinary experiences, which are a key focus for communication. Through a regular trade and press fam trip programme, both agents and media are regularly invited to the island to get a taste of island life and explore all that Nevis has to offer.

The NTA works with influencers to showcase the island and engage in brand partnerships. A notable partnership was our collaboration with London-based restaurant The Rum Kitchen to celebrate the Nevis Mango Festival. More recently, the NTA has been leveraging its partnership with Spice Girl Mel B, who has been named UK

Ambassador, to help showcase and draw visitors to our special island.

'JUST BE' IN NEVIS

My favourite thing to do in Nevis is to simply 'just be'. Nevis provides the perfect atmosphere and backdrop to chill, relax and unwind. It is a place to reinvigorate your mind and spirit, a place to catch up with yourself, with life, and with your friends and families. Even if you choose to hike to the summit of Saddle Hill, which is one of my favourite things to do, there isn't the hustle and bustle which you might expect on such a trip. The moderate hike to Saddle Hill allows me to meditate and take in all of nature and the history of the surroundings.

When you get to the top and take in the view, you get a sense of personal satisfaction and inner peace like no other.
