END THE SOLO STIGMA

Brits are longing to go it alone this year with research showing more travellers than ever are embarking on a solo adventure.

IT IS time to say goodbye to big group holidays and welcome the new wave of solo adventures that Brits are begging for. New research by tour operator HolidayPirates indicates that one in five (21%) of consumers are considering going it alone on their travels.

The poll of 1,003 UK consumers found that 1 in 10 people will embark on a solo trip in 2024, marking its growing appeal to travellers who wish to take their holiday into their own hands: 18% want to see the world without waiting for company; 17% wish to have full control over their itinerary while away; and 17% long for the flexibility to change their plans as and when they desire.

So what form do these craved solo itineraries take? According to the data, 33% of Brits would like to go solo in the city, while 25% would rather hit the beach for some quality R&R with themselves.

It is not just city breaks and beach holidays that Brits want to take on alone; a number of dream bucket list experiences are on the cards. Out of the people surveyed, 27% wish to cruise the Norwegian coast to see the Northern Lights; 18% want to truly escape with a retreat in Bali; 15% want to hit the highway and venture along the Great Ocean Road in Australia; 15% are seeking a safari in the Serengeti; and 15% dream of volunteering at an elephant sanctuary in Thailand.

To support the increase of solo adventures, millennial travellers aged 25-34 in particular are keen to see a more cohesive service when it comes to travelling alone. A third of Brits wish there was a 24-hour helpline for immediate assistance to solo travellers during the trip, with another 28% urging operators to offer advice on the best destinations to travel alone. Almost one in four (23%) are deterred by single supplements in hotel pricing, and want operators to allocate more affordable single rooms for solo travellers.

Radisson targets 50% Africa growth

AFTER THE success of its 2023 growth strategy, Radisson Hotel Group is targeting a 50% expansion for its West and Central African portfolios. The expansion will consist of 29 hotels and more than 5,000 rooms either in operation or under development by 2030.

Within the last 12 months, the Group has signed five new properties, including entries into The Gambia with Radisson Blu Beach & Spa, Banjul, and in Nigeria with Radisson Hotel Benin City. The Group's presence in Nigeria has gone from strength to strength over the last year, expanding its portfolio to 12 hotels and more than 1,700 rooms.

In 2023 Radisson maintained its African expansion with eight new hotel signings and the addition of more than 1,600 rooms.

American Cruise Lines opens 2024 season

CLASSIC RIVER cruise operator American Cruise Line kicked off its season on the Mississippi on February 22nd and confirmed new riverboats will sail over a dozen itineraries throughout the river's surrounding region.

2024 marks the cruise line's biggest-ever domestic season, with several new experiences on offer.

May will see the debut of 'Great Smoky Mountains National Parks' cruises, and a 35-day 'Civil War Battlefields' itinerary.

2024 follows on from a six-year period that saw the cruise line triple its domestic fleet, with new riverboats on the Mississippi introduced annually. 19 small ships and riverboats will continue their deployment throughout the year as they call at over 140 ports in 2024. Five more ships are under construction to join the fleet.

American Cruise Line's itineraries, including the new 'Great Smoky Mountains National Parks', 'Civil War Battlefields', and 'Great United States' voyages, are bookable via Fred. Holidays in the UK. www.americancruiselines.com www.fredholidays.co.uk/river-cruises

HONEYMOONS: THE dream enquiry. Exciting destinations and couples engaged both metaphorically and physically... or are they?

I really believe that sometimes, as agents, we can get a little excited with honeymoon enquiries and run off like Usain Bolt without slowing the pace and asking a few crucial questions, like can you afford the water villa you've always dreamed of?

We may assume it's one half of the couple pushing certain aspects of the dream honeymoon, but it is very important to make sure you are finding out all the key preferences for such a special and romantic trip from both travellers.

Budget is crucial too as often couples can be younger and simply don't realise how much the 'dream' is going to cost. While it may be blunt to define it as profiterole preference over pringles purse-depth, it is important to get the happy couple the best they can afford and not waste both yours and their time with a futile process of searching for the unattainable unicorn of a holiday.

Gift registry services are the perfect way for them to upgrade their experience too, as most couples don't need the classic frying pan set when they get married but friends and family supporting them to have the best possible honeymoon is something that all honeymooners should be made aware of and actively encouraged to get involved with, maybe the water villa isn't unachievable?

When offering the options, I always throw in a wild card too, as they have come to us as travel experts and we need to show our worth and not just take an order, this could be the most memorable holiday they ever have so why not offer them something exciting and unusual.

So, challenge yourself, take the opportunity and give your clients a holiday to fall in love with.

APT launch two ultra-luxury vessels

APT HAS announced the upcoming launch of two new vessels, the APT Solara and APT Ostara for the 2025 season. The new ships will elevate the brand and cement APT's evolution into ultra-luxury. With only 154 guests on board at a time, an outstanding service for all is guaranteed.

Solara and Ostara will set sail on APT's most popular European itineraries from Spring 2025, transporting guests along the Rhine, Main and Danube rivers.

APT Travel Group's CEO, David Cox, said that the new vessels "will redefine luxury river cruising, thoughtfully designed with our valued agents in mind."

AIUla goes global with first worldwide campaign

'FOREVER REVITALISING' aims to elevate the traditional destination campaign and encapsulate the essence of AIUla, spanning nine source markets in six languages.

The Royal Commission for AIUla is striving to portray the true essence of the city with the campaign, which spans both trade and consumer channels.

Phillip Jones, the commission's chief tourism officer, said the campaign is "the next chapter in [the destination's] ever-evolving journey."

Events targeting the trade have kickstarted the campaign in London, Dubai, New York, Paris, Shanghai, and Mumbai, with more expected.

Melanie de Souza, the commission's executive director of destination marketing, concluded: "Forever Revitalising is not only about driving global awareness of a destination... it is about communicating the breadth and depth of the programmes and initiatives designed to create a better future for all those who live, work and visit our ancient oasis."

Destination NSW launches corporate hub

AS AUSTRALIA continues its return to the top of long-haul destination demand lists, Destination NSW has launched a new digital hub comprising research, information, tools and resources to support trade growth.

The platform features training, a newsroom, information on industry events, and the latest marketing campaigns and partner toolkits. Data and insights on visitors and source markets can help you hone in on the destination's demographic and demand.

Destination NSW's CEO, Steve Cox, promised an "engaging user experience" on the platform, positioning the destination board to "be adaptable and forward-thinking during the momentum phase of the Visitor Economy Strategy 2030 and in turn ensure NSW achieves its targets and goals for visit expenditure."

Research reveals Europe's top ski staples

WINTER SPORTS insurance company SportsCover Direct has unveiled a look at the top ski destinations in Europe, measuring each on eight different metrics. The insurance provider evaluated the total price of a day ski pass, average star rating, number of ski lifts, highest point of elevation, slope lengths, average hotel prices and number of hotels within a 10km radius to uncover the top spots for skiing.

Bulgaria's Aleko resort came up trumps, scoring 74.2 out of 80. Straja resort in Romania came close behind (72 out of 80), with Ravna Planina in Bosnia and Herzegovina in third. Tornik-Zlatibor in Serbia and Kolašin 1450 and Kolašin 1600 in Montenegro comprised the top five.

MSC encourages guests to book ahead onboard

MSC CRUISES' new 'Open Booking' programme allows guests on board to make a future holiday reservation without committing to a vessel, itinerary or departure date.

The new initiative complements the cruise line's existing 'Future Cruise' programme. With the open booking system, guests can secure their next voyage by paying a £100 deposit per person while on board their current sailing. They will then receive a certificate granting them up to 12 months to select their preferred date. If guests select a ship/departure date within 60 days of their open booking, they will receive up to £200 in onboard credit (£100 if booked within a year).

Fear not, agents! The original cruise's booking agent stands to benefit too, with commission guaranteed once the ship and sail date is selected.

THE GREEK DREAM

SeaDream Yacht Club has expanded its Greek Isles offering with new voyages, including two cruises to the lesser-travelled areas of the Greek world.

ADDING TO its already extensive Greek portfolio, SeaDream Yacht Club has launched brand new voyages for 2025, promising to whisk guest across the Greek world for an in-depth touring adventure they will never forget.

The most anticipated addition is the 14-night voyage through the Greek islands which combines two new 'Yachting the Greek Isles' itineraries for one action-packed adventure through ancient legacy and modern traditions. The handcrafted itinerary offers a seamless blend of must-see Greek attractions, idyllic beaches and excursion opportunities to fully immerse into the Greek lifestyle.

The first of the two itineraries will cast away on June 29th, 2025, departing from Piraeus and will explore the lesser-known areas of the islands including Volos which has an optional Yachting Land Adventure to the UNESCO World Heritage site of Meteora; Delos, one of the most integral archaeological sites across the entirety of Greece; a late-night visit to Skopelos so guests can live out their 'Mamma Mia!' fantasies; plus an overnight stay in Mykonos. Prices for this itinerary lead in at £5,605 per person.

The second itinerary will depart on July 6th, 2025, and explore other hidden gems, including the island of Folegandros and the historic port of Symi which is inaccessible to larger ships. Other stops include an evening visit to Santorini; a stop at The Island of Lovers (Milos); Ios and a stop at Kythnos where the yacht will anchor directly off Kolona beach. The price for this itinerary leads in from £5,605.

Guest also have the opportunity to stay on board for a third consecutive cruise which will take them to Hydra, Delphi, Zakynthos, through the bucket-list transit of the Corinth Canal with stops in Sicily before ending the adventure in Malta.

Jet2 lines up Liverpool launch

JET2.COM AND Jet2holidays are set to take off from Liverpool John Lennon for the first time this month, marking the airline and package operator's 11th UK base.

20 sunshine destinations (including Mediterranean island options across the Balearics, Greece and more) are on sale from Liverpool John Lennon for summer 2024.

Steve Heapy, the ever-present CEO of both brands, says that there has already been “huge demand from customers and independent travel agents” for the services, adding that “the feedback we have received has left us in no doubt that making this move was the right one.”

"We are incredibly excited about opening this latest chapter in our continued growth story and we cannot wait to welcome customers and get started."

Of the 54 weekly flights comprising the launch services from Liverpool, the Balearics share alone represents 12 weekly flights. Two weekly services (Wednesday, Saturday) will serve Menorca, in an exclusive for the airport, with three weekly services to Ibiza (Monday, Friday and Saturday) and seven (daily).

Greece services to Corfu, Crete, Kos, Rhodes and Zante comprise seven of the 54 weekly services.

From Manchester to the Med: United legend's Maltese must-dos

SWAPPING MANCHESTER for Malta might be an obvious choice: for ex-United legend Dimitar Berbatov, it certainly was.

As brand ambassador for both Manchester United and Visit Malta, Berbatov has spent almost as much time on the island as he did in the penalty box.

Speaking to Travel Bulletin, the former United and Spurs striker couldn't have made his fondness for the island clearer: "For me, warm weather, good food, and people who are accommodating are always welcome: the whole experience on the island is unbelievable."

On his recent trip filming for MUTV, his former club's official television channel, Dimitar said that, despite enjoying his experience: "There is plenty left to do... next time, whether I come back with my kids or just my wife, we're going to have plenty left to explore."

Branson's best-loved Balearic

VIRGIN LIMITED Edition, a collection of luxury hotels and retreats collated by Sir Richard Branson himself, confirmed the newest addition to its portfolio last month: the Son Buyola Hotel (and its three surrounding villa properties).

The property initially opened in June 2023 after a comprehensive restoration. This month's opening will mark the beginning of a year-round schedule, taking full advantage of the milder Mallorcan climate in the low season.

Beyond the refreshed and indulgent accommodation options, guests can enjoy a schedule of complimentary activities, including yoga, Pilates, wine tasting, guided walks, and tennis coaching sessions among premium activities like kayak tours and guided hiking and cycling.

A low-season offer means stays of three nights or longer in hotel accommodation include the final night for free (between March 1st and June 13th, and September 16th and November 24th this year). Hotel room rates start from £424 based on two adults sharing with breakfast and free mini-bar.

The same final-night-free offer applies to villa stays of seven nights or longer in the same period. Villa rates start from £1,695 for a four-bedroom option on self-catering basis or £3,854 on all-inclusive basis.

Buzz at the beach: Lindian Village reopens with restoration project

LINDIAN VILLAGE Beach Resort Rhodes will re-open its doors from April 28th, 2024 but it is not just guests that will be welcomed with open arms as the resort will unveil an ambitious environmental restoration project named Bee Revived.

This project aims to help counteract the ecological damage caused by last year's wildfires with the re-introduction of 380,000 bees to support the rejuvenation of the island.

Guests have the opportunity to contribute to the Bee Revived initiative by way of donations and taking part in a new educational honey-tasting experience organised by the resort. The experience will see groups of guests escorted to some of the adopted beehives around the island to gain a first-hand account of the project's benefits. Guests will learn about the importance of bees to the global ecosystem and have the chance to taste the local honey from Rhodes.

Lindian Village offers 188 rooms oozing in indulgence and offers a private beach, freshwater swimming pool, either restaurants and bars, a kids club and fitness amenities.

Marriot makes Dodecanese debut

THIS SUMMER, Marriott is set to make its debut in the Dodecanese islands with the opening of the Patmos Aktis, a Luxury Collection Resort & Spa.

Following an extensive renovation, the doors are ready to open in June this year and welcome guests to the golden sands of Grikos Bay, marking a new chapter for the region's hospitality scene.

Patmos is a destination brimming with history and tradition, and Patmos Aktis uses that influence to create a timeless escape for guests. All 56 guestrooms, suites and villas have been redesigned to encompass this history with a luxurious simplicity that is renowned throughout the Luxury Collection brand.

The resort will also house a new signature restaurant ready to serve up Mediterranean staples to guests from all over the world with a contemporary twist. With the charm of a traditional Greek taverna, Plefis Tavern is located on the beach with a menu full of classic delicacies.

The resort's spa encompasses the spiritual energy of the destination and offers a selection of rejuvenating rituals and signature treatments to transport guests into a state of pure relaxation and mindfulness.

Resort rates lead in from £255 per night on a bed and breakfast basis.

HERITAGE AT HEART

Heritage Expeditions has launched its first wave of 2025/2026 voyages, with plans to venture where no cruise ship has gone before.

DISCOVER THE true authentic essence of a destination away from the tourist route as Heritage Expeditions has launched its first wave of voyages for the 2025/2026 season, including a 20% discount for bookings made before April 29th, 2024.

The small-ship expedition cruise operator promises travellers the chance to explore exotic locations off-the-grid and learn what makes a destination what it is, from the people and the culture to the experiences waiting at its fingertips.

Traveller can take advantage of the Early Bird sale for the first nine voyages of Heritage's 2025/2026 season, where they will set sail to the depth of the Japanese islands, the Philippines, Indonesia and Australia's Kimberley Coast.

The cruise line is looking to add an industry-first to its portfolio by paying a visit to Polillo Island in the Philippines as part of the 19-day 'Asian Island Odyssey' voyage which will sail from Taipei to Darwin.

Commercial director and expedition leader, Aaron Russ, commented how the company will make "cruise history as the first expedition to visit the remote tropical outpost" that offers the "perfect mix of unexplored paradisiacal island, incredible wildlife both above and below the water and a fascinating conservation history."

Prices for the 'Asian Island Odyssey' lead in from £12,675 per person for a June 9th, 2025 departure, not including the Early Bird discount. Other itineraries offered by the expedition cruise line include the 11-day 'Kimberley Explorer' where cruisers will discover the untouched beauty of the Kimberley Coast from £6,795 per person, and the 11-day 'Eternally Sacred Japan & South Korea' cruise where guests can witness the seamless combinations of ancient customs with modern living from £9,545 per person.

Slow travel sets the pace for DTH Travel

DTH TRAVEL has turned its focus from establishing its new brand identity to offering authentic, community-centric travel experiences.

Following its rebrand at WTM 2023, the DMC has confirmed a notable rise in sales for last year, exceeding targets by over a quarter. That momentum appears to be carrying the DMC into 2024, with January sales up against 2023.

The rebrand brought with it a realignment of DTH's product focus, with CEO Stephan Roemer explaining that "repositioning ourselves as pioneers of authentic travel experiences has had a very positive impact."

In light of guests looking for those 'authentic' experiences, DTH Travel has introduced several new tours, which Stephan has described as "surprising adventures and heartwarming experiences."

Those include a nine-day 'Cycling Holiday in North Vietnam', where each day guarantees a scenic two-wheeled adventure only matched by the next. Prices lead in at £960 per person between May and October 2024. Contact UK director of sales David Carlaw at david.carlaw@dth.travel for more information.

An invite to Discover Egypt

DISCOVER EGYPT'S new brochure, spanning both Egyptian and Jordanian adventures throughout 2024 and 2025, features a whole range of North African experiences. From cruises on the River Nile and Lake Nasser, city breaks in Cairo, Aswan and Luxor plus resort breaks on the Red Sea Riviera, very few stones are left unturned.

Highlights of the 2024/25 Egypt & Jordan collection include a seven-night Nile adventure aboard the five-star MS Tulip, all-suite Sonesta Star Goddess or the deluxe Alexander the Great (new for 2025) with prices from £1,839 per person.

The seven-day 'Classic Jordan' private escorted tour, visiting the ruined city of Petra, Wadi Rum, and the Dead Sea, along with a stay in the capital, Amman.

A 16-day option swaps the classic for the spectacular, aptly titled 'Spectacular Egypt and Jordan'. Blending a twin-centre stay with a seven-night Nile cruise, the bumper itinerary blends the best of both worlds.

Philip Breckner, Discover Egypt's commercial director, said the brochure collates a "comprehensive choice of great value holidays... to suit most tastes and budgets."

The e-brochure is available for order via TradeGate or can be viewed online.

Antarctica exploration in pole position

LEADER IN boutique Antarctica expeditions, Antarctica21 is adding another vessel to its fleet as the Magellan Discoverer is set to join her sister ship in the icy waters for the 2026/2027 season.

The decision to increase its fleet came from the heightened demand globally for Antarctica fly and cruise expeditions, with the White Continent now holding a pole position on many bucket lists.

Jaime Vásquez, president of Antarctica21, highlights the company's "dedication to sustainability" all the while offering "seamless comfort" for travellers.

"With its modern elegance and advanced technical features, [the ship] provides an unparalleled travel experience in the spectacular Antarctica region," he said.

The current vessel cruising the Antarctica waters is the Magellan Explorer, allowing guests to get an up close and personal experience with the white wilderness.

Expeditions currently available include the eight-day 'Classic Antarctica' from US$15,995; the 10-day 'Polar Circle' from US$22,795; and the six-day 'Antarctica Express' from US$6,495.

GREECE MAKES HISTORY

Planet Weddings is just one of many operators welcoming the news that Greece has legalised same-sex marriage

THE GREEK Government earlier this year made the historic decision to legalise same-sex marriage, a feat that has been a long time coming and marks a pivotal milestone for the future of the country.

For Greece's tourism industry, the news couldn't come soon enough for the wedding sector, with wedding and honeymoon packages to the destination already a top seller. Planet Weddings, a specialist for destination nuptials, has welcomed the news with open arms and is ready to enhance its offering to suit every happy couple.

Mathilde Robert, managing director of Planet Weddings, has said that the operator is "thrilled to see Greece taking this important step" and they "look forward to helping LGBTQ+ couples create memories that will last a lifetime". Matilhide also stressed the importance of providing "all travel agents with the support and guidance they may need to help their clients plan their dream wedding".

Greece remains one of the top sellers for short-haul destination weddings, and that trend is only set to continue with the news as more couples will wish to tie the knot in Grecian paradise, whether they prefer a more serene celebration in Kefalonia or a reception party for the ages in Mykonos.

Planet Weddings currently features 13 destinations in its Greece portfolio, including Crete, Santorini, Rhodes, Skopelos Kos and Thasos, offering 63 venues with more added yearly. Agents can now book their clients' dream wedding with the operator for 2024 and 2025, and 2026 for select venues. www.planetweddings.co.uk

Prices lead in at US$650 per person per night. www.greensafaris.com

Sea-sons of love: Explora Journeys' honeymoon alternative

IT IS not just beach getaways and private islands that make the best honeymoon options for your clients. Explora Journeys' head of sales, Priti Mehta, urges agents to consider luxury cruises for their clients' consideration for their special holiday.

"Perfect for land lovers who are new to cruise, we offer a different style of luxury travel for honeymooners, comparable to more traditional honeymoon suites. EXPLORA I and EXPLORA II offer intimate and exclusive European luxury at sea," she said.

An example of Explora Journey's unique romantic offering is the 14-night 'Extended Journey of Colourful Caribbean Escapes', departing on December 6th, 2024 for a round trip to Miami. Honeymooners can journey through the kaleidoscope of colours the Caribbean boasts while exploring destinations such as the British Virgin Islands, Martinique, Barbados, Saint Lucia and Saint Kitts and Nevis, to name only a few.

Prices for the itinerary lead in from £7,200 per person on an all-inclusive basis. Honeymooners also have the option to stay in the Ocean Residences suites, offering a tranquil sanctuary with private decks, panoramic views and a butler service.

Couples on board can indulge in couples' massages in the Privacy Spa Suite, as well as aromatherapy sessions and facial treatments.

Estonia waves the flag of marriage equality

EARLIER THIS year, Estonia proudly joined many other countries worldwide in recognising marriage equality by legalising same-sex marriage, marking a momentous occasion for the Baltic states. The Prime Minister of Estonia, Kaja Kallas, said she is "proud of Estonia" and the legalisation of same-sex marriage "shows that our society is caring and respectful towards each other". While it has been legal since 2016 for same-sex couples to register for civil partnership, June 2023 saw the country take the next step in marriage equality, a law that became effective last month, meaning any and all couples who wish to tie the knot and celebrate their love can do so.
